

Angélica Castelló
Composer, sound artist.

Born in Mexico City in 1972, Castelló studied music in her native town at the Conservatorio Nacional de México, at the Université de Montréal, at the Conservatorium van Amsterdam, at the Konservatorium der Stadt Wien and at the Department of Composition and Electroacoustics at the University of Music and Performing Arts Vienna and at the Anton Bruckner Private University in Linz. Since 1999, she has lived in Vienna. In the year 2004, she founded the concert series “Neue Musik in St. Ruprecht”, and has organised hundreds of concerts and events.

New and electroacoustic music are the nucleus of her work. She has performed in Europe and America with different ensembles and with musicians such as Burkhard Stangl, Billy Roisz, Martin Siewert, Maja Osojnik, Katharina Klement, Urkuma, Franz Hautzinger, Isabelle Duthoit, Sophie Agnel, Gudinni Cortina, dieb13, Jerome Noetinger, Gunter Schneider, Barbara Romen, Mario de Vega, Christian Fennesz, Attila Faraveli, Kazu Uchihashi, Juanjose Rivas, Tamara Wilhelm, Dafne Vicente-Sandoval, Fernando Viguera, Steve Bates, Guro Moe, Liz Allbee, Noid, Kai Fagashinski, Thomas Grill, Steve Heather, Michaela Grill, Christof Kurzmann, John Butcher, Olga Neuwirth, Wolfgang Mitterer a.o.

As a composer, she writes for her own instruments (mainly the Paetzold sub great bass recorder, and LoFi electronics and Radio) and for various ensembles as well as acousmatic works . Her music has been published by the labels Mikroton Recordings, Mosz, Instertellar Records, Orlando Records, einklang_records, Mandorla Label, Monotype Records and chmafu nocords. Numerous composers, including Hilda Paredes, Daniel de la Cuesta, Katharina Klement, Burkhard Stangl, Jorge Sánchez-Chiong, and Mario Lavista, have worked with Angélica Castelló or dedicated pieces to her. In recent years, Castelló’s work has included installations that operate at the interface of music, performance and visual arts (Electroaltar, Electroaltar for J.C., Electroaltar für C.N., Margarita' Stillleben Theater, Magnetic Islands a.o.).

Her debut album, “Bestario”, unites the multifaceted nature of Angélica Castelló’s work:

Recordings of her own instruments serve as the raw material for pieces in which she edits the sounds of her flutes, sometimes beyond recognition, and combines them with frequently deformed fragments of other elements — be they electronically produced or found elsewhere — to a musical entity in which multiple layers overlap. She weaves existing pieces of other composers, such as Bach, into these contemporary forms of electronic processing, thereby referencing her work as an interpreter of old music. Even though her other sources of inspiration, such as from literature or visual arts, often have specific roots, they lead Castelló to an abstract engagement with such topics as death, and dealing with traumatic encounters. Wide-ranging combinations of sounds that are constantly and sometimes simultaneously moving in different directions provide continuity as well as surprises, and when listened to repeatedly, they shed new light on the beasts from literature, the animal kingdom, and daily life that have been set to music.
